

3 Signs She's "FAKING IT"

The TRUTH About Whether You're Just a One-Pump Chump or You're Really the Stud She Tells You...

www.davidwygant.com

Oh, oh, oh... you're the man...

Oh my god, don't stop. Scream, yell, nails in your back...

Oh my god, harder, harder, harder...

And then all of a sudden, after hearing those words, you came too quickly.

Listen, I get it.

Sometimes the moans and groans will make you explode way before you're supposed to explode.

So what can a man do? Here she is, she makes you feel great because she tells you harder, faster, you're sexy, oh my god.

And then when you come too quickly, you always ask yourself:

"Did She Orgasm???"

Well, she'll tell you yes... I mean, she was moaning and she was groaning. She was screaming your name out. But in reality, did she really come?

The answer is going to shock you, because the answer is...

A Big "NO!"

Did You Know?

Statistically, about 80% of women admit to faking an orgasm half the time during sex.

Do the math... that means 2 out of every 5 orgasms you THINK you're giving her... aren't actually orgasms at all.

The chances of her coming right away and you coming super fast are about as good as the New York Jets winning the Super Bowl any time this century.

If you've ever seen When Harry Met Sally, you know the famous diner scene ("I'll have what she's having"). You know how convincing those moans and groans can be, even when they're 100% FAKE.

And here's the thing: women don't do it just to be dishonest. Because despite how much of a macho man you think you are, your ego is really fragile when it comes to sex. And women know this.

They don't want to hurt your feelings. They want you to feel like you're giving them the best sex they've ever had in your life.

And yet, the simple fact remains...

It's NOT the best. She wouldn't be faking it if it was.

So, let me tell you about Ms. Faker and the 3 foolproof signs that she's faking.

Sign #1

When she's screaming your name out after only 15 seconds of sex, moaning and groaning and pretending to come, that's exactly what she's doing.

She doesn't want to ruin your ego... but she doesn't know how to talk to you about what feels good to her.

Sign #2

When you go down on her, after about three minutes, she's screaming and yelling, she's faking an orgasm.

No woman will come that fast because that is simply not enough foreplay.

Does it feel good for her? Yes.

Is she enjoying it? Of course.

But she's not experiencing that full-on orgasm. Not yet.

Sign #3

She's not talking about what she needs, wants, and desires at all from you. She hasn't trained you in bed yet.

You're coming, she thinks she knows you're coming, and she's afraid to tell you that she's not coming.

She'll tell you how good it feels.

But the fact of the matter is this: a woman is faking if she hasn't communicated what she wants in bed to you, plain and simple.

She's just allowing you to pump away at her, and all she's doing is screaming and yelling, which means nothing.

Think about it: if you were a woman and you had some hard object and some big man on top of you, you'd be screaming and yelling too as you were being penetrated.

But penetration does not equal orgasm at all. As a matter of fact, the only way she is ever going to orgasm is if she communicates sex to you.

One of the biggest ways you're going to know that she's lying to you in bed is that she has never told you what makes her feel good.

She has never communicated to you what feels great.

She has never told you how to make her come.

She has never guided your head in the right direction when you go down on her.

She has never slowed you down and showed you how to hit her G-spot.

She's a poor communicator, yes, and maybe that's on her. But...

What are YOU supposed to do?

Because, unless you want to remain her Mr. One-Pump, you have to do something.

And you won't remain Mr. One-Pump for long. If she's not feeling amazing during sex, eventually the relationship will fall apart.

So, how do you become her incredible, passionate and sexy lover?

It's simple: you ask her what she likes. You tell her that you love pleasing women and you want to know exactly what she likes.

You suggest a mutual masturbation session so you can see the way she moves her fingers over her clit and how she penetrates her own body with her fingers.

You learn how she likes it fast or slow.

You ask her to guide your head and your tongue - one of the hottest things you can possibly do is to have her hold your head gently and tell her to move your head in the exact direction that she wants so she's able to orgasm.

You look at her during sex and you say to her, this is all about you. Tell me exactly how you want me to move. Move my hips and I'll move them the exact way you want.

Sex is about communication.

That's what you miss by watching all that porn, which you need to stop doing now. Because sex isn't about blowing your load all over this woman's face.

It's about communication, and communication is the key to the hottest, most mind-bending orgasms you AND her will ever have.

The more you communicate, the better sex is going to be.
And what I'm going to do for you is teach you all about sexual communication.

Over the next few days, I'm going to be sending you videos that will reveal what women truly want in bed...

...how to unleash their sexual fantasies and their inner "bad girl"...

...and the secrets to giving them toe-curling orgasms on command (real orgasms).

No more faking it.

You're about to become her sexual fantasy.

Talk soon.

Your friend,

Dwt